A Stylish Outing

1939 Fargo Coupe Ute

A shiny Corvette visiting from Port Augusta

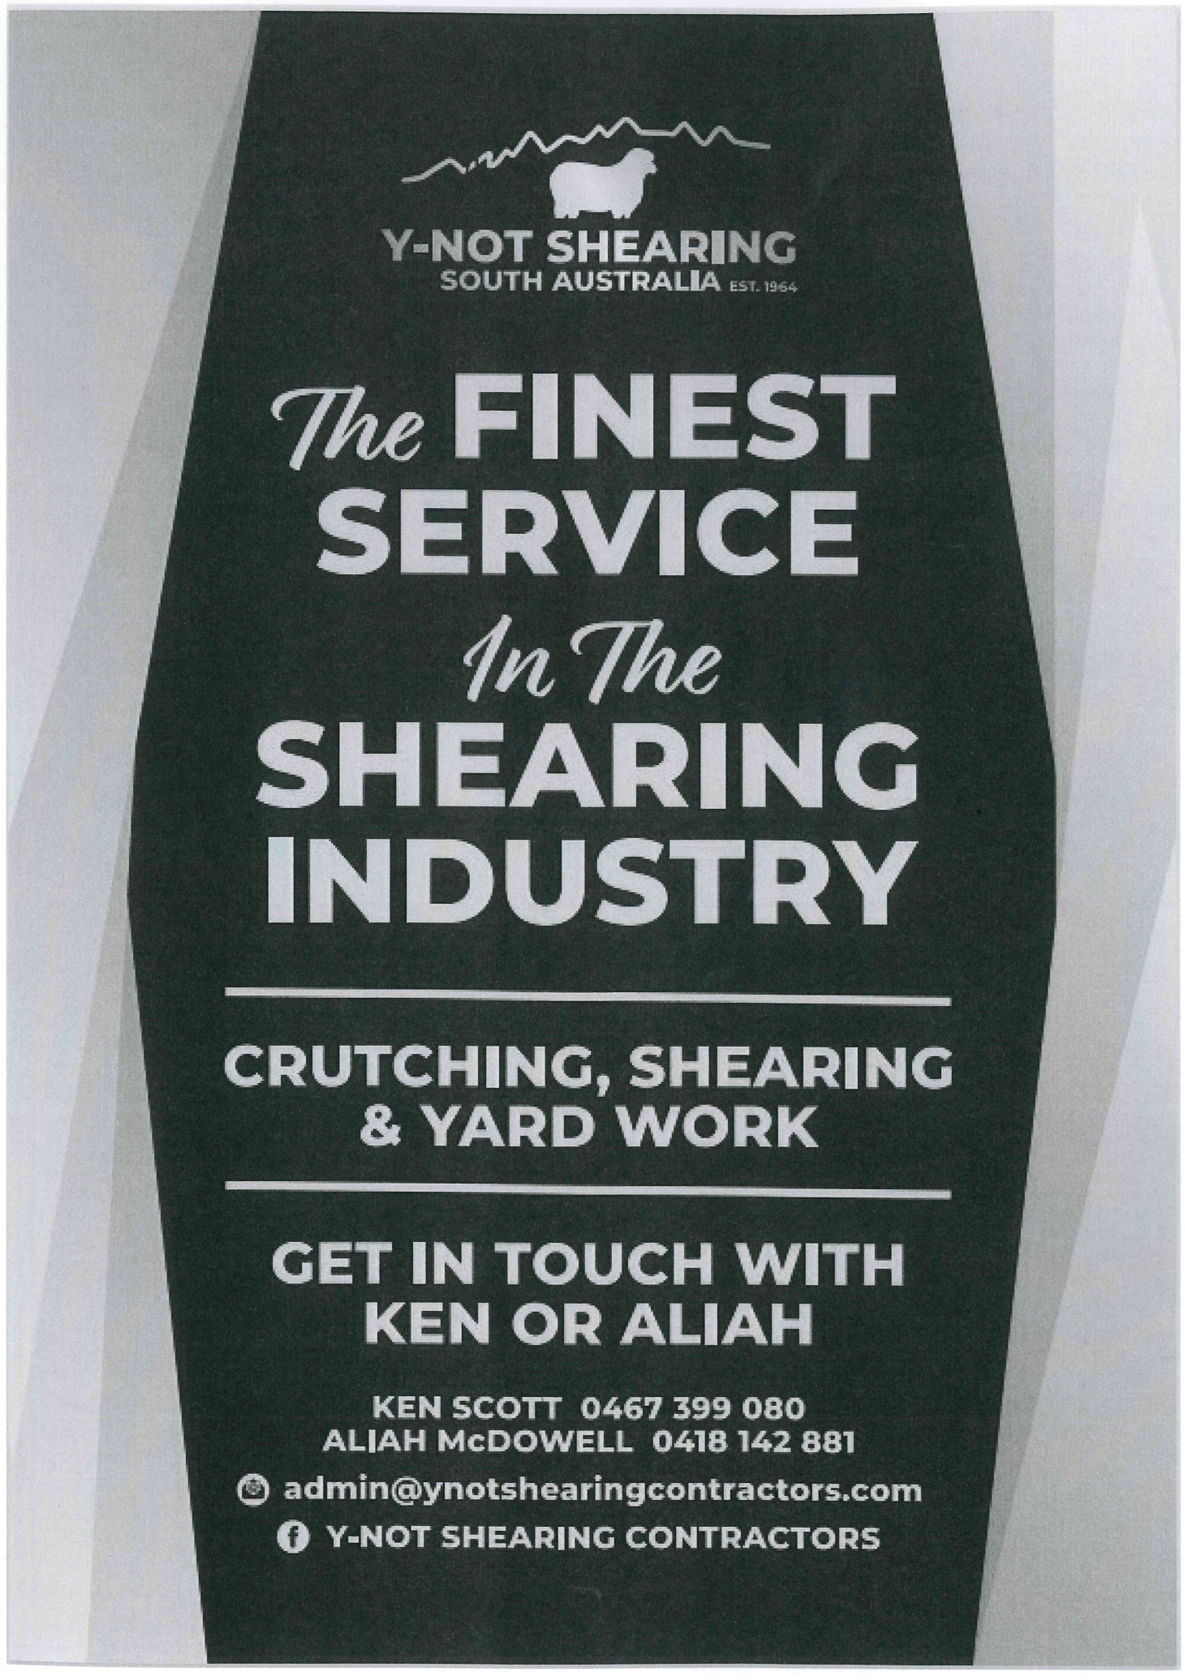

QUORN CARS AND COFFEE group brightened the Quorn streetscape with shiny relics of the motoring past.

The featured vehicle above belongs to Mr Max McLeod. The 1939 Fargo Coupe Utility was purchased new, by Mr Frank Willis. It was next owned by Mr Harold Eckert.

Max McLeod then purchased it and restored the vehicle from the ground up. It surely is a beautiful homage to the vehicles of Quorn's past.

Focus on Volunteers

Quorn and District Local History Group

VOLUNTEERING IS THE CORNERSTONE of our society and Quorn abounds with people who donate their time to keep many groups running. August Focus on Volunteers highlights the Quorn and District Local History Group.

The Group is a long standing, community led organisation that has been passionately preserving and sharing the captivating history of the district for over twenty years. Based in the heritage listed Quorn Courthouse, the group meets fortnightly to engage with visitors, researchers, and locals seeking insight into the people, places, and events that have shaped this iconic part of South Australia.

Probus Update

JULY WAS A BUSY MONTH for Quorn Probus. The month kicked off with guest speaker Rolli Pick from the Port Pirie Bus Service who spoke about bus services available in our region. These include a bus to Port Augusta and Port Pirie, and the medical bus service to Adelaide at reasonable prices. Pamphlets for are available at the council offices.

The Probus group enjoyed a shopping, eating, and more shopping day trip to Orroroo this month. Four members travelled to Farina for a two day getaway with the Port Augusta Probus Clubs. Our regular trip to Cinema Augusta is held on the third Monday of the month. Probus Club meetings are on the first Tuesday of the month at the Quorn Town Hall at 10.00am.■

A Chat with a Quornie Norm and Coralie Bee

Let's explore your local knowledge and a bit more!

Relax, sit down and enjoy a cuppa while you get to know this couple from your community.

We had the pleasure of meeting Norm and Coralie Bee who reside on Arden Vale Road, when my husband Graeme and I took the retirement plunge to tour our beautiful countryside and experience a whole new world of 4WD Touring.
It's called the bucket list and we couldn't have chosen better people to help familiarise us with the joys of the outback!

Norm and Coralie Bee

As owners and directors of Pindan Tours and 4WD Training, Norm and Coralie Bee have lived in Quorn for over 13 years and although that may not meet the criteria of a "true local", by golly their story is worth a read.

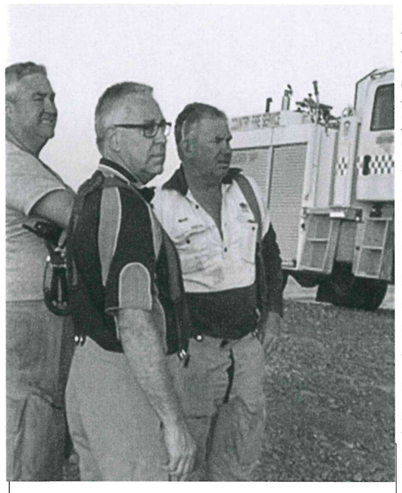

Norm giving Cynthia's husband Graeme instructions how to change a wheel safely and correctly.

We met Norm and Coralie during our recent 4WD training course in Quorn, when we were introduced to the joys of exploring and of learning new skills to for our new and exciting journey ahead.

As directors of first impressions for their company it is obvious that Norm and Coralie have a passion for people, and they left an indelible mark on us as we embarked on our bucket list of future trips.

Besides the expert 4WD driving and recovery training and knowledge they provide, their love of nature, animals and flora found in the Australian outback leaves nothing to be desired and to listen to their tales is reminiscent of bedtime stories as a kid growing up. Colourful recollections leave you in awe wondering and wanting more. They are generous by nature and have no hesitation in sharing their knowledge and experiences of outback travel with anyone, which again leaves you wanting to return. This couple are a valuable asset and advocate for Quorn and the hidden treasures of the Flinders Ranges.

Quorn CFS Volunteers– Graham Geldard,

The Bees advocate for their community and back that up by both being actively involved in supporting emergency services in Quorn with Coralie being a volunteer ambulance officer and Norm volunteering with the CFS and SES.

Coralie joined the Australian Arid Lands Botanical Gardens in Port Augusta in 2015 and started in the nursery helping propagate plants. Soon Coralie started as a tour guide, taking school groups and private participants around the gardens explaining the mini attributes of the arid land species around the gardens.

Initially volunteers were relying on their own local knowledge of the plant species and they had some random pieces of paper to help them as the guide people around the gardens
So they developed a small booklet in full colour for other volunteer tour guides to use to help explain to people what variety and species looked like if they weren't in season in the gardens, so people had a better understanding of what they were looking at in the bush.

She has since gone on to develop an excellent and extensive flora and fauna booklet which they now give to people who join them on their tag along tours, particularly for the remote desert regions that they travel through.

Norm's family background is in the pastoral industry (he's a Greenfield Bee) with his grandfather, Norman Greenfield, and great grandfather, George Greenfield, running sheep stations in the northwest pastoral area of SA. His great great grandfather, William Greenfield, lived and worked for John Phillips at Kanyaka Station between Quorn and Hawker.

Norm's mum was born and raised on Purple Down Station and Norm and his siblings lived there for a while and in later years visited many times during school holidays. He reckons that's where his love for the bush comes from.

Coralie is a Sydney girl who moved to SA in 1986 to work at the SA Museum as a scientist working on mitochondrial DNA in reptiles.

She met Norm in 1987 while horse riding and eventually they bought a hobby farm in Cudlee Creek where they ran sheep for three years before selling it to buy a sheep and wheat farm in the mid north, which they ran for 10 years.

They share farmed the wheat with a neighbour and grew fat lambs for the markets and a small wool clip each year. Their farm wasn't big enough to support them so they both worked off farm. Coralie at Barossa TAFE as a wine lecturer and Norm at Roseworthy Agriculture College as a carpenter and later as the building supervisor, managing the various trades on site during project builds and building maintenance work.

Reluctantly they sold their farm and moved to the outskirts of Gawler, as one of their daughters had special needs and needed to be closer to Adelaide for her specialist care.

Their move to Gawler was never going to be permanent, and after 20 years they took the plunge and started their own business and deliver 4WD training and remote area 4WD tag along tours, full time.

As they both longed to get back to a small property and with Norm delivering a lot of 4WD Training to government departments in and around Port Augusta, and their love for the Flinders Ranges, that eventually drew them to their small property at Quorn, a town they always liked when running 4WD Trips in the Flinders.

Norm has had a very long involvement with 4WDriving, touring and camping in the outback. He started camping regularly at age 13 and got his first 4WD at 17 years. He is passionate about 4WD training and 4WD touring in Australia. He delivered his first itinerised tour in September 1983 - a two week trek up to the Red Centre and back down the Oodnadatta Track and into the Flinders Ranges.

Coralie has a bachelor and a masters degree in science and an education degree as well as a passion for, and a wealth of knowledge about, native flora and fauna .

The Bees have travelled extensively all over mainland Australia with their children on many of the iconic 4WD tracks. Norm has also worked in the outback on various stations during his career as a builder and now as a contract driver/trainer. He also works travelling to the APY lands five or six times a year supporting the travelling court that visits that region.

Coralie complements Norm on their tag along tours when guests want to learn more about specific plant species and flowers and native fauna. She is also a volunteer ambulance responder, so you're in safe hands on their tag along Tturs!

Coralie is a whiz on the sewing machine and her ideas on organising and packing for a camper trailer are very practical and border on that "magic light bulb moments" for novice explorers like us. Her advice was particularly useful when it came to dealing with all that bulldust that remains in a trailer at the end of a trip - a constant curse and challenge for all travellers so tapping into her wealth of experience and knowledge was very much appreciated.

Soon after joining the Barossa 4WD Club Inc. in 1997, Norm was asked to be their lead trainer and so began his 4WD training career. He joined 4WD SA's Driver Training Unit (DTU) and became a Nationally Accredited Certificate IV Workplace Trainer & Assessor, training members from many of the 4WD clubs throughout S.A. He was the Driver Traner Unit (DTU) Coordinator for the Barossa 4WD Club for 15 years and was also the Trips Coordinator for eight of those years.

Coralie and Norm at the Blinman Mine

Norm was also chairman of the DTU for five years - being responsible for 85 active trainers around SA. Two of his former pupils now deliver 4WD training south of Adelaide. So, why not get trained by the guy that's trained the trainers and assessors? He was a peer instructor for the DTU delivering certificate IV workplace trainer and assessor courses, 4WD advisor courses, trip leader courses and was a lead auditor for the DTU, as it was a registered training organisation (RTO) during his time with them.

Coralie,Norm and Norm's sister Jennifer Bee working at their stall at 4WD Outdoor and Adventure Show Adelaide

Norm and Coralie agree 'It's not just our business - it's our passion'.

Congratulations to Norm and Coralie. Your positive outlook on Quorn is to be admired and every country town needs people like you.

The best advocates are storytellers who transport their audience on journeys of inspiration, emotion and understanding.

Congratulations Quornies you are indeed lucky to embrace this friendly family.

Check out their Facebook profile, their website and enjoy the positive comments this Quorn couple leaves for all those who visit Quorn and the Flinders Ranges. A real asset to the Quorn community – be proud ! ■

Quorn Lions Club

The Quorn Lions Club has been active in the community again this month.

A donation of $500 was made to the Quorn Men's Shed toward the cost of gravel they purchased and we also ran a sausage sizzle at the market. Upcoming events include the committee changeover dinner, and catering for the Under 9's carnival at the oval.

The club is also planning for the races and Quorn show and are always after volunteers to 'share the load'.

Riding Camels in Maree

PAULINE ZANET AND DEAN MONTGOMERIE went to Maree for the 30th Anniversary of the Maree Camel Cup, and were guests at Marie Williams' Maree house.

Whilst they were there for the weekend, they attended the Curry Day which is held on the Sunday after the Camel Cup.

This day is held in the Afghan Quarter of Maree at Irene Zada's place, which was originally her uncle Dean's place and called Dino's Casino.

Donna Cook (Zada) and her partner Goey Gill from Wilmington arrived with their caravan and set the ball rolling, with Irene, Mathew, and Raymond Zada all helping. Everyone else made a curry, and especially Sue Dadleh, who with her late husband Ronnie were two of the original people who decided on the get together Curry Day. It is a charity day, with everyone cooking a curry and sharing. It is also a great day for people to get together before returning to their respective homes elsewhere, after attending the Camel Races.

The people who own camels take them to Maree for the racing bringing them to the Curry Day at Irene's to give camel rides to everyone, which is much appreciated by all. ■

Marree by Air

By Marie Williams and Robert Crombie

Marree Man

On 27 June we took a flight with Arid Air from Marree with company owner Phil Van Weegan who is very informative in his commentary. Phil previously chartered flights out of Birdsville until he and his wife Maria bought the Marree Hotel. He knows that area very well. He continues to fly from Marree, and recently sold the hotel to concentrate on the flourishing Arid Air business, employing many extra pilots working.

Our flight left Marree at 9:30 am and returned at 4:30 pm, and the flight was amazing seeing the water from the floods in Queensland and flowing into Lake Eyre.

We flew over the Willouran Ranges, Witchelina, Callanna and the Marree Man which is still very visible from the air. From there it was over Lake Eyre, Goyder Lagoon, Eyre Creek, Simpson Desert, Big Red and to Birdsville for lunch.

The water is still flowing, but from places around Cowarie where it is beginning to dissipate. The country is bright green and it's wonderful to see so much water flowing into Lake Eyre. Phil's knowledge of the area made the trip so much more interesting telling us everything about where we were, and the water flow.

At Birdsville I was picked up by Michelle Murray to go and see an exhibition which I had input into about my father Jack Bejah, and grandfather Bejah Dervish, who were both famed Cameleers. Dad took the camels and looked after them for the Simpson Desert crossing with Dr Madigan in 1939.

My Grandfather Bejah Dervish also with the camels went on the Calvert Expedition in 1896, which was an expedition mapping inland Western

After leaving Birdsville we travelled towards Innamincka to the Coongie lakes and followed the water down. The Cooper Creek water flows into Lake Eyre, and was an incredible sight, as there was so much of it over a vast area. We followed the Cooper down as far as the Birdsville Track, which the water crossed just days before. We then followed the Birdsville track, flying over Etadunna, Dulkannina, and Clayton Stations until we touched down in Marree.

Seeing Lake Eyre filling from the air was a great once in a lifetime experience. ■

Port Augusta to Mount Everest

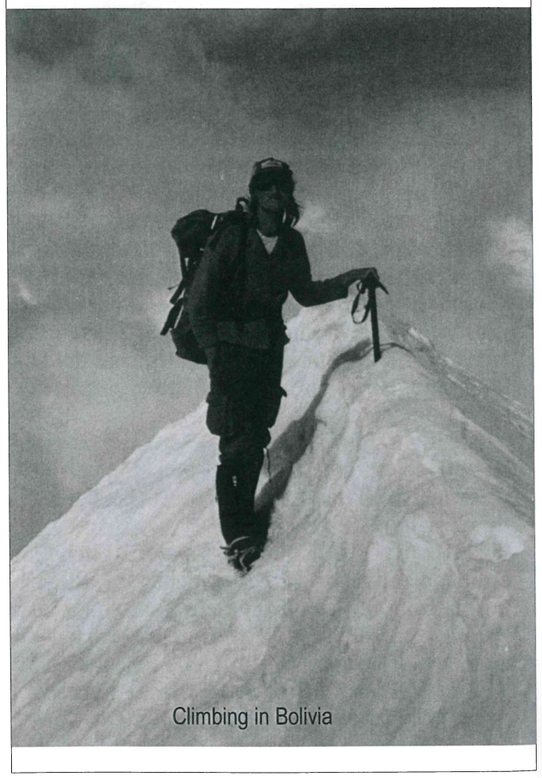

By Geoff Bartram

How did a Port Augusta boy become a professional mountain guide and Himalayan mountaineer? It's a story of serendipitous meetings and having the freedom to choose the road less traveled which unexpectedly kept going for over 25 years.

I was born in Port Augusta, mother Gladys Klingberg from Arden Vale, and father Cyril Bartram from Kalgoorlie, so mountains were certainly not in my genes. I went to Port Augusta Primary, then Darwin High School when my father was transferred with the Commonwealth Railways. From there we went to Canberra with another transfer where I landed my first job with CSIRO Division of Wildlife and was sent to Alice Springs in 1968 to join a 10 year dingo study. I'd spent a lot of time in Port Augusta out with extended family rabbiting and fishing and crabbing so exposure to the outdoors came early. But in Alice Springs my outdoor skill and love for wild, remote environments and big blue skies really matured. Two weeks every month, two of us would go on field trips, me in my late teens, my companion and mentor in his early 20s, self contained and self reliant. It was the stuff of a boys own comic book.

In 1976, as the project was to become laboratory based I left when friends in the US invited me to help them build their house in Maine. On the way to the US I trekked to Everest base camp but, while in awe of what I was seeing, could never have imagined Nepal would become a second, actually third home.

I was too early to help my friends on their house so decided to hitchhike to Alaska. Late one rainy afternoon I was trying to get from Bellingham to Vancouver for the night when some students stopped and offered not only a bed for the night but free entry to a Jimmy Buffet concert. First remarkable meeting. Of course I accepted and also accepted the offer to stay a few days in Bellingham when the sun was shining next day. Wandering through the university I saw a handwritten notice from someone looking for companions for a climb of Mount Baker the following weekend. The author was perhaps surprised when I turned up since I'd never climbed before and Mount Baker was not a 'walk up' climb but they invited me to join the small group. Second remarkable meeting. Some quick instruction and I became a mountaineer albeit a guided one. Dunham and I formed an instant strong friendship and we kept in contact when I hitched back across the US to help my friends with their house. Winter came and another member of the Mount Baker climb and I decided to use our new found skill climbing in South America. We traveled overland as far as southern Peru, bumbled our way up a couple of peaks, I got hepatitis and that was the end of that.

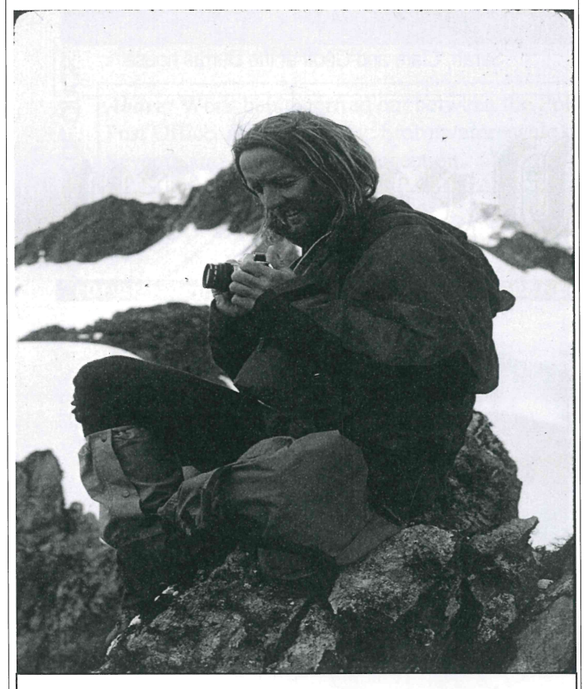

Climbing in Bolivia

Back in the US and after recovery, Dunham offered me work with his newly formed guide service. At the end of the summer he realised he had to offer his clientele more climbs and in exotic locations and so began our 15 year South American guiding partnership. He found the clients and I and fellow guides guided them. At first we climbed the Mexican volcanoes, then opened programs in Ecuador and finally settled on Bolivia as the best place to both teach new climbers and to keep the interest of those more experienced. From our base in Bolivia we took expeditions to Peru and Chilean and Argentine Patagonia each year from May until October.

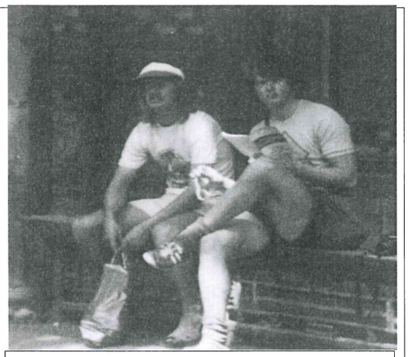

Bolivian family with whom we shared a house in La Paz

In Patagonia

In 1980 I went on my first Himalayan expedition to Annapurna 3; a disaster with three climbers dying in an avalanche. In Kathmandu I met Lincoln Hall and Tim McCatney-Snape who had just started trek leading for Australian Himalayan Expeditions and asked if I would be interested in a job. It was exact opposite season to South America and so began five wonderful years of paid Nepal adventuring. Third remarkable meeting.

With Lincoln Hall

In 1981 I met my wife Sarah who was the first female trek leader and we both moved between Bolivia and Nepal each year. Fourth remarkable meeting.

The same year Tim, Lincoln, Andy and I went to central China which had just opened to mountaineering. At the end of the expedition we asked the Chinese Mountaineering Association for a permit to climb Everest. Everest permits for the southern, Nepal side were booked many years in advance. We were given the unclimbed north face, a 3000 metre, vertical unknown for post monsoon 1984. When I look back we were young, confident and audacious and we accepted and planned to do a new route without oxygen or any Sherpa help. Wide World of Sports kindly sponsored us. On October 3, 1984 Tom and Greg Mortimer summited, I turned back with cerebral oedema and Lincoln and Andy with frostbite.

Sarah and I returned to Bolivia but not Nepal and instead spent the Bolivian offseason in Patagonia. In 1990 Sarah became pregnant with our daughter, Clare and we returned to Australia and settled where we still live in South Durras. We both knew guiding and high level mountaineering was over. Guides only make a living being away from home and guides, often fathers, too frequently die in the mountains. But once Clare reached her teenage years we resumed our affair with the Himalaya and returned most years to trek with locals long since close friends, up another remote valley with stunning mountain views.

Sarah and friends started a small NGO, Project Didi Australia, now in it's tenth year which works with a Nepali NGO, Asha Nepal, to assist young women who have been rescued from sex trafficking to mostly India. We are both tremendously proud of Clare and her friends who have taken over the running of Project Didi.

I joined the fire brigade as a last career and took volunteer fire fighters to Nepal to set up local fire brigades. It seemed more than fitting that after all those years when Nepal gave us so much we were able to offer something in return. A fortunate life. ■

Pictures from the Past

Imagine the Summer conditions inside what looks above like a converted cattle van. And imagine what it would have been like for the Soldiers travelling in vans like this on ice-cold Winter nights

THESE ARE 2nd World War photos, of course. But nothing like this huge movement of troops by train to the north of Australia happened in the 1st World War. In that War, Australia captured what was then German New Guinea swiftly, and right at the start.

In the 2nd World War, as the Japanese advanced on New Guinea from the north, our Federal Government drew a line from Brisbane to Adelaide, and planned to offer all of Australia to the north and west to Japan, in return for leaving us alone in the south-east. But the US General MacArthur insisted on defending Australia in New Guinea. So 56 trains of Aussie Soldiers and equipment every week went through Quorn to Alice Springs, to then get them all the way to New Guinea. There, they fought the Japanese army and turned it back at Kokoda in 1942.

PICHI RICHI • RAILWAY •

School holidays made July an extremely busy time on the railway at PRR and to quote our President, Clive Bennett , "a rewarding time transporting 2,000 visitors on the train trips to Woolshed Flat and Port Augusta."

Many thanks to our wonderful volunteers who hosted visits from interstate and local tourists during the school holidays on the trains. Murray and Lorraine Billett, who are fit octogenarians, worked with the team as Car Captains for 1 week. This energetic couple have been volunteering on PRR for 25 years.

The catering crew also worked hard providing refreshments to between 180 - 210 passengers per train. Feedback from the many passengers was positive as usual.

Considering Volunteering?

Join us in one of many roles Phone Bronwyn, our Volunteer Coordinator on (08) 8641 1527 #3 to discuss

During June-July, it was very pleasing to observe several PRR members clocking up work experience as part of their training.

One interesting project is the restoration and stonework taking place at the Goods Shed across from the Quorn Station.

Its not all about work at PRR .

There is camaraderie in the Camp Kitchen as people prepare meals, watch AFL games (thanks to our IT Tech wizard, Bob Beare). Also many beautiful sites like Devils peak and Dutchmans Stern to enjoy.

Watch out in August for the release of our 2026 Timtable.

WINNER 3 ACADEMY AWARDS 2019 INCLUDING BEST PICTURE

GREEN BOOK, a film inspired by a true friendship that transcended race, class, and the 1962 Mason-Dixon line.

When Tony Lip (Mortensen) a bouncer from an Italian-American neighbourhood in the Bronx, is hired to drive Dr Don Shirley (Ali), a world-class Black pianist, on a concert tour from Manhattan to the Deep South, they must rely on "The Green Book" to guide them to the few establishments that were then safe for African-Americans.

Confronted with racism, danger, as well as unexpected humanity and humour, they are forced to set aside differences to survive and thrive on the journey of a lifetime.

Quorn Mens Shed News Roundup

EVEN WITH THE WINTER ILLS AND CHILLS we have made great progress this month. We have been able to acquire and spread gravel around the vegetable garden. The Quorn Lions and the Preloved Shop gave us donations toward the cost of the gravel. Their on going financial assistance is really appreciated as it has allowed us to continually improve our facilities, which in turn makes it better for members to use. A heartfelt thank you.

Breakfasts have been well attended and the women's workdays have had very good results. Thank you girls.

A big thank you also to the members who have stepped up to the plate as I've been ill of late. Your dedication to the shed and the community is truly appreciated.

Making Friends Outside of Facebook. Currently, I am trying to make friends outside of Facebook whilst applying the same principles. Therefore, every day I go down on the street and tell a passer-by what I have eaten, how I feel, what I have done the night before, and what I will do afterwards; I give them pictures of my meals, my partner, family, friends, my cat, my garden, and 'selfies' of when I am pursuing my hobbies such as walking on the beach. I also listen to their conversations, and I tell them that I love them. And wow, it really works. Already I have 3 people following me: 2 police officers and a psychiatrist.

If it's zero degrees outside today and it's supposed to be twice as cold tomorrow, how cold is it going to be?

New Releases

- By Any Other Name by Jodi Picoult A mysterious manuscript connects two women—one a modern ghostwriter, the other a long-forgotten author—as they uncover truths about love, identity, and storytelling.
- The Unquiet Grave by Dervla McTiernan A gripping crime thriller that uncovers long-buried secrets when a high-profile psychiatrist is murdered in her Dublin home.
- Eleanor Oliphant Is Completely Fine by Gail Honeyman A socially awkward woman with a traumatic past slowly begins to heal and connect with others, discovering the power of kindness and friendship.
- The Ministry of Time by Kaliane Bradley A dystopian love story about a civil servant assigned to oversee a time-traveling 19th-century explorer in a future where time tourism has ethical costs.
- Orbital by Samantha Harvey Set aboard an international space station, this reflective novel follows six astronauts as they contemplate life, humanity, and Earth from orbit.
- Burial Rites by Hannah Kent Based on a true story, this haunting novel follows the final days of a condemned woman in 1829 Iceland as she awaits execution for murder.
- By the Billabong by Annie Seaton A historical romance set in 1890s outback Australia, where a woman fights to save her family's property and uncover hidden family truths.
- The Heart's Invisible Furies by John Boyne A sweeping and emotional novel tracing the life of a gay man born in 1940s Ireland as he searches for love, identity, and acceptance in a changing world.
- Red Dust Running by Anita Heiss: After a fresh start in Brisbane curating a First Nations gallery, Annabelle's no-romance rule is tested by a charming cowboy, forcing her to choose between her passion and an unexpected chance at love.
- Strangers in Time by David Baldacci: A fast-paced thriller where time travel collides with espionage, forcing a man to confront both historical mysteries and personal danger.
- Landfall by James Bradley: A haunting, near-future climate fiction tale set in a devastated Australia, following a soldier uncovering dark secrets in a collapsing world

MY LOCAL SERVICES APP

The My Local Services app can help you discover upcoming local events and places of interest. You can also stay up to date with council issues.

The app allows you to:

- personalise content to only show information from your local council
- set up weekly bin reminders. Remember bins should be out by 6.00 am on pickup day (even better the night before)
- find out what's on in your local area
- locate your nearest community centres, libraries, playgrounds, toilets, and council buildings report issues such as broken bins or damaged council infrastructure.

Downloading and installing the My Local Services app onto your smartphone is easy and free. It's available on the Apple App Store and Google Play.

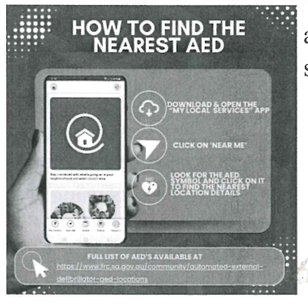

A New Listing in the App

Automated external defibrillators now easier to find

Locating your nearest automated external defibrillator (AED) for The Flinders Ranges Council area is now easier.

A full list of AEDs is available at https://www.frc.sa.gov.au/community/automated-external-defibrillator-aed-locations

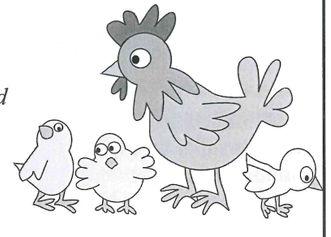

If you are out and about and want to know where the closest one is, you can also access it via the 'My Local Services' app on your phone - see image for details.

News from the Quorn Show Society

THE QUORN SHOW SOCIETY welcomes Mel Spackman to our team. Mel is an experienced poultry owner and she shows her own birds. Mel has put together a fabulous program for show day on 28 September titled 2025 Quorn Backyard Specials Poultry Show.

Details will soon be advertised but here is the outline. The classes are for adults and juniors, any kind of poultry young or old, no sick birds please, and all birds are to be fully feathered. Time to start thinking about sprucing your favourite chook up for our show.
